Air Alliance Houston is pleased to announce that Mark Bradford, also known as ScrapDaddy, has donated a sculpture of a fish for public education to its Earth Day Houston 2012 event. It is an art piece to show people what may become of the plastic they discard on our streets and along our bayous. The fish will make its debut at the gallery showing for Mark David Bradford's art on February 29, 2012 at the Deborah Colton Gallery.

His fish already has quite an impressive possible public schedule. It will travel to Trash Bash, Earth Day Houston, Earth Day at The Houston Arboretum, Art Car Parade, Kid's Day along Buffalo Bayou in October. Please encourage the CEC members to come thank Mark Bradford for making this educational art available for us, and see its potential. This giant fish will be stuffed with the plastics which fill our bayous!

Start Time: 18:00
